President Reminds UN How Reds Vetoed Peace

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The two most powerful men in the world confronted each other in the United Nations Thursday and demonstrated — one in words, the other in manner — the depth of the abyss between them.

Nikita Khrushchev's darting eyes narrowed to slits when President Eisenhower stepped up to the lectern to speak.

Eisenhower's voice slowed to an icy, measured cadence when he reminded the great audience of the Soviet vetoes in the United Nations and the Soviet walk-out from the disarmament conference in Geneva.

Khrushchev sat like a statue. He watched the President with a stony stare. He took his eyes off Eisenhower only once. That was when Eisenhower referred to the RB47 plane case. At this point, Khrushchev shot a swift remark to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. Gromyko penciled a brief note.

Speaks to Khrushchev

Eisenhower seemed to be speaking directly to Khrushchev. Through most of his speech, he looked straight ahead, seldom turning to right or left. The lectern was on a straight line with the middle-aisle chair where Khrushchev sat.

This was the third time in a year these two men — either of whom could plunge the world into nuclear war with a single word — had faced each other.

Just over a year ago, Khrushchev was in Washington.

He was all smiles then. Only a little more than 12 months ago . . .

The next time was in Paris in mid-May.

Riding in separate cars, they rolled into the courtyard of the Elysee Palace. The world's hopes centered here.

When they came out, a few hours later, it was just the reverse.

Now Eisenhower was grim, flushed, with jaw out-thrust. Khrushchev was doing the grinning and waving.

He had attacked Eisenhower shouting, banging his fists, using across the green baize table. Americans who hissed and booed him as he emerged from a diplomatic reception at the Plaza Hotel. He muttered it back at them and an aide translated it from Russian as: "Savages!"

Khrushchev Reacts

NEW YORK (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev had a single word Thursday for Americans who hissed and booed him as he emerged from a diplomatic reception at the Plaza Hotel. He muttered it back at them and an aide translated it from Russian as: "Savages!"

Then, after the first speech by the foreign minister of Brazil, the assembly president announced, "The next speaker is the President of the United States."

A cottony hush fell over the room. Khrushchev froze in his chair.

Eisenhower entered. His expression was thoughtful.

From around the hall, hundreds of eyes were turned on Khrushchev, watching his reaction. His expression was a blank. His eyes were hooded and hostile.

The distance in the hall between the two men, and their manner toward each other, symbolized the contrast between the cold war today and the hopes of last year.

Candidates Woo Midcontinent Vote

By The Associated Press

WHILE President Eisenhower sought world support for U.S. aims before the United Nations Thursday, the men who would succeed him bid anew for votes at places and on themes far from the U.N. Assembly.

A plowing contest at Sioux Falls, S.D., provided the background against which Democratic nominees John F. Kennedy outlined the program he says can lift lagging farm income — if it is applied with "work and sacrifice and discipline."

The Republican candidate, Richard M. Nixon, rode the Midwest range, too, in Missouri and Illinois, praising the record of the Eisenhower administration but promising improvements. And he accused the Democrats of backing a "do-it-with-mirrors" economic philosophy.

Lodge Injured

The Republicans suffered a fresh campaign casualty at South Bend, Ind., when Henry Cabot Lodge, the vice-presidential nominee, ran afoul of an automobile door. A finger on his right hand was painfully mashed when an aide slammed the door on it.

Grimacing occasionally, Lodge got through a 30-minute speech and then was taken to a hospital where X-rays disclosed no fracture. A splint was applied, however, and he pushed ahead with his campaigning.

On an Aug. 17 campaign sortie into the South, Nixon bumped his left knee on a car door at Greensboro, N.C., and the apparently minor injury developed into an infection which sent him to a hospital and delayed the start of his intensive campaigning for 11 days.

Kennedy advanced a six-point program pledging the pursuit of income parity for farmers; closely managed production controls geared to crop output rather than acreage, expanded use of surplus foods for the needy at home and abroad; an extended, locally administered soil conservation program; revised and eased farm credit procedures and special attention to the needs of farmers having gross income below $2,500 annually.

The Massachusetts senator left unanswered many questions as to detailed operation of his plans. But in broad outline they appear to differ from present policies mainly on the fundamental questions of maintaining the parity price conception — which attempts to relate farm income to production costs — and continuing production controls. The Eisenhower administration's long-range aims have been to move from both these ideas.

Want It Better

Nixon assured an applauding crowd of 10,000 at St. Joseph, Mo., that "however good things are, we want them better for tomorrow."

Moving on to Decatur and Rockford, Ill., Nixon expanded on the economic theme, stressing particularly his claim that Democrats have been giving a distorted picture of the nation's economic position. He cited figures in support of the "we've never had it so good" theme.

Then Nixon went on to say that while much further economic progress is possible, the Democrats are not the ones to provide it. To move ahead, he argued, calls for "leaders whose policy is to accent the traditional efficiency — not leaders who merely emphasize expanding government activity all along line together with artificially easy credit."

Ike Challenges Khrushchev To Insure Peace Through UN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — President Eisenhower issued a massive challenge to the Communist world Thursday to pledge itself against use of force and subversion, and join efforts to insure peace under the guardianship of the United Nations.

While Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev listened with deadpan intensity, the President challenged the Soviet Union on such issues as disarmament, use of outer space, nuclear weapons control, and peaceful change through organized assistance in a burgeoning new world of independent nations.

Keynoting a historic diplomatic struggle in the U.N. General Assembly's 15th session, the President informed the attentive Communists he wants talks on disarmament renewed at once. But he warned that disarmament cannot be brought about through oratory or propaganda.

War By Miscalculation

His voice firm, clear and confident, the President took the Soviet Union sharply to task as contributing to heightened tensions and told them the world is in danger of "war by miscalculation."

Professing against attempts to subvert the restless continent of Africa, Eisenhower pictured this as an acid test of the U.N.'s future as a peace organization.

He proposed broad programs of modernization and education for Africa, measures to insure it from outside aggressions and arms races, and organized aid to other developing areas in Asia, Latin America and the Middle East, all under U.N. guidance.

In effect, this was a challenge to the Communists to work primarily through the United Nations in approaching the world's most dangerous problems.

Khrushchev, blinking occasionally but almost immobile with attention, failed to join in the applause when the President finished.

The Soviet Leader's reply, when asked for comment on the President's address, was a curt: "I'm going to lunch."

President Eisenhower pointedly reminded the Soviet Union that the United Nations "is not an instrument for use or abuse or for amplifying 'the propaganda tunes of individual nations.'"

The general reaction among delegates was that the President had made a constructive statement. Some were enthusiastic about it, and these included Africans, and Latin Americans.

Communist bloc leaders, following Khrushchev's lead, were noncommittal, but Communist President Tito of Yugoslavia, who was to meet with Eisenhower later on, pronounced the address "a positive statement."

Tito followed Eisenhower to the assembly rostrum. Not long before, in the corridors, he had his first meeting of this session with Khrushchev, who professes to see Tito as a Communist heretic. The two chatted amiably, with Khrushchev doing most of the talking, and walked arm in arm down the aisle to their seats.

Tito, on the rostrum, lost no time in displaying himself as a spokesman for neutral or uncommitted countries in the cold war. "We are attaching particular importance to the contribution that the so-called noncommitted countries can make toward the betterment of international relations," he said.

President Eisenhower, item by item, laid the U.S. position clearly on the line. Here are the outstanding things the President sought:

DISARMAMENT: The Communist walkout from the disarmament commission in Geneva this year brought negotiations to an abrupt halt but "their unexplained action does not, however, reduce the urgent need for arms control."

"My country believes that negotiations can—and should—soon be resumed. If negotiations can be resumed it may be possible to deal particularly with two pressing dangers—that of war by miscalculation and that of mounting nuclear weapons stockpiles."

NUCLEAR: "I propose that nations producing nuclear weapons immediately convene experts to design a system for terminating, under verification procedures, all production of fissionable materials for weapons purposes. That termination would take effect as soon as the agreed inspection system has been installed and is operating effectively, while progress in other disarmament fields is also being sought."

SPACE: The President warned that unless steps are taken now to ensure against military uses of outer space, the "point of no return" may soon be reached. He proposed agreement that no celestial body be subject to claims of any nation's sovereignty.

He sought agreement against use of celestial bodies for warlike activities or to use satellite in outer space for weapons of mass destruction. He proposed all space craft landings be verified by the U.N.

AFRICA: The President urged pledge of noninterference in African affairs, help to assure national security, emergency aid to the turbulent Congo, international assistance in a long-term African development program, and programs of modernization and education. He proposed to rule out "subversion, force, propaganda or any other means of" interference, and sought a pledge against "generating disputes between states of this area or from encouraging them to wasteful and dangerous competition in armaments."

"If the United Nations system is successfully subverted in Africa," Eisenhower said, "the world will be on its way back to the traditional exercise of power politics in which small countries will be used as pawns by aggressive major powers. Any nation, seduced by glittering promises into becoming a catspaw for an imperialistic power, thereby undermines the United Nations and places in jeopardy the independence of itself and all others."

Thrust At Soviets

Pointedly, the President referred to the Congo, where the Soviet Union has just sustained a resounding political defeat through Asian-African support of the U.N. measures to restore peace. He urged avoidance of any action to exploit or intensify current unsettled conditions in the Congo "by sending arms or forces into that troubled area or by inciting its leaders and peoples to violence against each other." This was a thrust at the Soviets, without mentioning them specifically.

ASSISTANCE: The President suggested intensified programs, under the U.N., of economic and social development assistance in developing areas such as Asia, the Middle East and Latin America.

Moon Rocket Poised

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The moon moved into a favorable position as a target Thursday and a powerful U.S. rocket is poised for an attempt to launch the first lunar satellite.

A towering Atlas-Able rocket stands on its pad here, awaiting the signal to blast off on the exacting task of propelling the satellite deep into space and guiding it into orbit about the moon, some 230,000 miles away.

The 388-pound payload, called Pioneer VI, is crammed with instruments designed to send back more information about the moon's environment than any previous space probe.

Paths Aligned

The most favorable launching time is a five-day period starting Thursday. The chance of success in this period is greater because the paths of the earth and moon will be most closely aligned as they orbit around the sun—and the sun therefore is not in a position to distort the course of the rocket by its pull of gravity.

If the National Aeronautics and Space Administration is unable to fire the Atlas-Able in this time, the shot will be postponed until the next ideal period, which comes every 28 days.

To escape the earth's gravitational field, Pioneer VI must reach a speed of 24,000 miles an hour. The three stages of the Atlas-Able are designed to attain this velocity. Then, as the space craft streaks toward the moon, additional thrust will be provided as needed by igniting a unique start-and-stop rocket in the payload.

This small rocket, which is controlled by ground signal, can be fired four times during the flight for forward acceleration.

62 Hours

If all goes as planned, the satellite will reach a point about 5,000 miles from the moon in 62 hours. Then the start-and-stop rocket will be fired in reverse to slow the speed to 3,000 miles an hour so the payload will be attracted by the moon's gravitational field.

If Pioneer VI whirls in its intended orbit 1,500 to 2,500 miles from the lunar surface, it will radio back information on radiation magnetic fields, micrometeorites and other space phenomena.

This data is necessary before man can venture to the moon.

Innocent Victim Of Cuban Bullets

Girl's Death Laid To Terrorists

NEW YORK (AP) — A 9-year-old girl, a sightseer from Venezuela, Thursday became the first victim of political terrorists, who have scourged New York with the advent of the United Nations General Assembly. She died of a stray bullet's wound, inflicted during a restaurant brawl by pro-Castro Cuban hoodlums.

The child was Magdalena Urdaneto of Caracas, shot in the back as she lunched with her parents Wednesday in the El Prado Restaurant on Eighth Avenue in the 50s.

A gang of Castro sympathizers invaded the cafe to beat up a band of five demonstrators opposed to the Cuban regime of Prime Minister Fidel Castro, who is here for the U.N. meeting. A barroom brawl ensued and shots were fired by the pro-Castro group, who outnumbered their rivals three to one.

Neither the Urdaneto girl nor her parents were in any way concerned in the melee. She died early Thursday in a hospital.

Despite this evidence of the lethal tension induced by the presence here of bitterly controversial heads of alien states, Soviet Prime Minister Nikita Khrushchev continued to complain about a government "limitation that confines him to Manhattan as a security measure."

"My strolls in free America are not too free," Khrushchev told reporters from the balcony of his Soviet U.N. headquarters on Park Avenue. He inaugurated the balcony appearances Wednesday and continued them Thursday.

Going To Glen Cove

However, Thursday night Khrushchev was granted permission by the State Department to leave Manhattan over the weekend and go to the Soviet U.N. delegation's estate at Glen Cove on Long Island. The premier sent word he wanted to go there Friday evening or Saturday morning, returning to Manhattan Sunday evening.

The State Department agreed. Officials had previously said they would consider a Soviet proposal for any specific trip to Glen Cove for Khrushchev.

In Havana, government-controlled newspapers claimed the restaurant invaders were anti-Castro members of the "White Rose" organization, rather than pro-Castro men. This version was distributed by the Cuban news agency.

However, police disputed this. Among the men attacked in the cafe were at least two exiles from Cuba, who came here from Miami to demonstrate against Castro. And a man arrested early Thursday and described as a member of the raiding party was quoted by police as admitting the invaders were pro-Castro. He is Santiago Larroque, who denied firing the gun. A man with a hook in place of a missing hand was sought as the actual slayer of the Urdaneto girl.

The rival Castro groups have been among the wildest of the thousands of demonstrators who have surged along Manhattan's streets since the arrival early this week of such foreign dignitaries as Castro, Khrushchev, Yugoslav President Tito and Hungarian Red boss Janos Kadar.

A record assignment of 8,000 New York police to the United Nations and the headquarters of the various member nations has kept rioting to a minimum. But the Urdaneto girl was shot on the West Side, far from the focal point of the demonstrations and in an area police had no particular reason to concentrate upon.

Khrushchev Accepts Bid To Visit Cuba

NEW YORK (AP) — Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro said Thursday he had invited Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to visit Cuba and that Khrushchev had accepted.

The Cuban said the time of the visit still was not certain.

Castro spoke with newsmen as he ate a steak at luncheon in the dining room of the Theresa Hotel in Harlem, which he is making his quarters while here for the United Nations General Assembly meeting.

The Cuban and Khrushchev had their first known meeting Tuesday when the Soviet leader visited Castro at the hotel.

The meeting was viewed as significant because Castro's revolutionary regime has been regarded as edging into Moscow's sphere.

Castro described Khrushchev's visit to him as "proof of Soviet friendship."

Asked specifically whether Cuba was dominated by Communists, Castro smiled and said: "That's a matter for your Central Intelligence Agency to determine. If you want to know about Cuba, go there. Everybody is free in Cuba to come and go as they wish, including spies and newsmen."

Among those present during the informal news conference was Mario Biassetti, a CBS newsreel cameraman who was ousted from Cuba several months ago without any reason being given.

Castro appeared indifferent at not being invited to a Waldorf-Astoria Hotel luncheon that President Eisenhower gave Thursday for representatives of 18 Latin-American countries.

As the Cuban left the U.N. headquarters for the Theresa after the General Assembly session, he remarked: "We take it easy. We are not sad. We wish them good appetite. We are happy eating with the poor people, the humble people of Harlem."

Navy Planes Sight Subs In Atlantic

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy Thursday reported sighting one and probably two submarines operating near a Soviet tanker and tug about 400 miles east of Cape Grace, Newfoundland.

The sightings, which the Navy described as "positive," were made by a U.S. Navy patrol plane flying over the Grand Banks area of the northwest Atlantic on Tuesday and Wednesday.

At about midnight Tuesday, the Navy said, a P-2V Neptune plane reported a radar contact about four miles east of the Soviet tanker Kokand.

The American plane made a searchlight run astern of the contact and sighted a "heavy wake" leading from a partially submerged submarine, the Navy said.

About 5 1/2 hours later, early Wednesday morning, the U.S. patrol plane saw the snorkel or breathing tube of a submarine about 10 miles astern of the tanker.

Macmillan Coming Sunday; Summit Parley Unlikely

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The decision of Britain's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan to fly to New York Sunday will bring into the U.N. General Assembly arena three of the four principals of the mid-May summit fiasco in Paris. But chances of a big power summit conference were dim Thursday night.

"The prime minister has absolutely no intention of going in for summity on this occasion," a British delegation spokesman told reporters. Macmillan was the prime promoter of the Paris session.

President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev already are here. French President Charles de Gaulle, the fourth at the Paris summit, has given no indication of coming to New York.

The British delegation spokesman said Macmillan will confer with Eisenhower while he is in New York and will be happy to meet any other government chiefs, including Khrushchev should an occasion arise.

U.S. Marine Plane Falls; 29 Perish

NAHA, Okinawa (AP) — A four-engine U.S. Marine transport plane crashed into the Pacific Thursday with 29 persons aboard. Ships and planes in the crash area 180 miles south-southeast of Okinawa found no sign of survivors.

"There are a lot of bodies in life jackets and the destroyer Perkins is picking up the bodies," said Cmdr. John P. Crosby.

ations officer of Naha naval air facility, after receiving a report from the carrier Oriskany. Planes from the Oriskany first spotted dye markers and debris, and directed surface rescue craft to the scene.

Speculating on the widespread wreckage, oil and dismembered bodies, a Navy spokesman at Naha suggested the plane may have exploded in the air.

The Marine RSD transport, a military version of the DC-8, was carrying 23 passengers and a crew of six from Atsugi, Japan, bound for Subic Point, Philippines.

County Lets Election Supplies Bid

SUN-LITHO Printing Company, East Stroudsburg, was awarded the contract to print the ballots for the coming election and other election supplies yesterday by the Monroe County Commissioners.

Three bids were received, two sealed and one just quoting price for the ballots. The two sealed bids were from the Daily Record at a bid of $1,754, and Sun-Litho at a bid of $1,735.50.

The other quotation, from the Harrisburg Telegraph Press, was rejected because it was not in bid form and did not qualify under the wording of the advertisements for bids.

Lady Luck Smiles On Canfields

BARTONSVILLE — Lady Luck smiled on Gerald and Peg Canfield, proprietors of Canfield's Service Station, after the family had been dogged by a series of misfortunes and illness for several years.

Rain was falling outside but skies were not dreary for the Canfields early this week when they were informed that they had been named recipients of an electric range, in Purulot's Prize.

The "windfall" came at a fortuitous time. The old electric range the family had been using had been in the 1935 model, when the first floor of the Canfield residence was inundated. Since that time the oven has not functioned properly.

And this past summer, during Canfield's lengthy confinement in Monroe County General Hospital, major repairs on the stove became imminent.

The Canfields are eagerly awaiting the arrival of the new electric range. Delivery is expected within two months.

10 Fired Are Re-Hired

HARRISBURG (AP)—The State Revenue Department has rehired 10 employees dismissed from their civil service jobs because of political activity.

Revenue Secretary Charles M. Dougherty said Thursday the group was put on the non-civil service payroll in the department.

John E. James, department personnel director, said the switch from civil service to non-civil service status did not affect the pay scales of any of the people.

"These are all good people," said Dougherty. "In every case they passed the civil service examinations for the posts they held."

All 10 were employed in the Philadelphia office. Nine were civil service field auditors and one was a corporate tax examiner. All were rehired as field investigators, a post not covered by civil service.

They were dismissed from their civil service posts as a result of a ruling by Atty. Gen. Anne X. Alpern last week that no civil service employee could take part in any type of political activity, utility's program to modernize its four lakeside campsites. In The ruling applied to workers who were covered by civil service in an executive order.

Dougherty said several of the people involved in the revenue

Triple Trouble In Town Visit

NEW ULM, Minn. (AP)—It was triple trouble when Richard Gieseke of nearby Klossner came to town.

Gieseke paid a visit Wednesday to his uncle, Harry Larson, who had recently had an operation. While there, Gieseke's aunt fell and broke her hip. Job Picture Mixed Latest figures give the job picture the look of an abstract drawing. Total August employment of 68,282,000 was a record high and about a million more than in August 1959. But the number of jobholders still was 407,000 under that of July.

As usual, unemployment declined. But instead of the normal August drop of 500,000 in the jobless rolls, the decline was only 229,000—to a total of 3,788,000.

Blamed for the drop in employment were the continued sluggishness in the steel industry and the early shutdown of automobile plants for 1961 model change-overs.

If it weren't for this situation, the seasonal drop of about 431,000 in farm jobs would have been canceled. As it is, the Labor Department's expert thinks that employment is "moving along at a very high plateau."

The unemployment rate increased from 5.4 per cent of the labor force in July to 5.9 in August. Most of the decline in August unemployment was attributed to the fact that teen-agers removed themselves from the labor force as they prepared to return to school.

From whatever angle the voter approaches August's job statistics, the picture looks mixed. But the politicians on both sides probably won't have much trouble picking out the views that seem prettiest from the campaign rostrum.

Under Two Flags

According to the White House, the order to fly the flag of the Republic of Panama in the Canal Zone arose from "a voluntary and unilateral decision" by President Eisenhower. In the sense that Panama could not compel this courtesy, the President acted of his own volition.

But it is equally true, if discretely left unsaid, that the President acted to mollify Panamanian nationalism, which flared into rioting in the Zone last November. While leaving untouched U.S. sovereignty acquired by treaty, the flag flying alongside our own is supposed to symbolize Panama's "titular sovereignty" in the Zone.

What worries the President's responsible critics is the fact that the phrase—"titular sovereignty"—was itself an earlier U.S. balm for offended Panamanian pride. It is feared that the U.S.

may yield control of the strategic Canal bit by bit, making increasingly generous concessions to an increasingly demanding nationalism that eventually becomes unappeaseable.

U.S. rights in the Canal Zone are nothing to be ashamed of, having been legally negotiated and handsomely paid for over the years. To surrender them, piecemeal or otherwise, would be a gross disservice to U.S. interests. Certainly no petty tyrant or Communist pawn should ever be suffered to grab the great international waterway in the name of "nationalism."

One symbolic flag hardly amounts to surrender. But the U.S. should not naively expect this latest concession to be the last one demanded unless we make clear the difference between "titular sovereignty" and ownership of the Canal.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Both Parties Worried

The religious issue in the campaign has both parties worried and they would like to put an end to it. One of the chaplains was a Catholic; another, a Jew.

Men like this do not attack the Papacy out of bigotry; they are convinced that the fears of the 18th century must continue. These are the psychological facts which require understanding. John Kennedy's approach to the problem has been politically sound, if ecclesiastically uncertain.

He courageously attended a Protestant convocation in Houston and told the ministers just what he thought of the religious issue and what his attitude toward his own church would be were he elected President.

They cheered him; but did they cheer his courage, his frankness or his rejection of ecclesiastical control even in matters of faith and morals should he be elected President?

Richard Nixon must do better than he has done so far if he is to keep his lead. In the first place, old line Republicans do not understand why he needs all the committees that are announced as supporting and advising him.

Many of the names are not a little startling to Republicans. If Nixon follows the Willie pattern of bringing a melange of queer people into the Republican Party, some of his most ardent supporters will move out as they moved away from Wendell Willkie.

Secondly, he has thus far gone out of his way to extol the Eisenhower Administration. But the fact is that some phases of the actions of the Eisenhower Administration are not altogether defensible.

What about Cuba? What about the testimony of Ambassadors Gardner and Smith? What about inflation? What about the losses to the gold reserve?

Nixon, in his interview with Walter Cronkite, said something about having learned his politics from Eisenhower. This is corny. Nixon in knee pants was a more able politician than Eisenhower, who managed largely on his personality and his build-up as a war hero.

Surely, Nixon has not forgotten that when Harold Stassen organized a campaign to dump Nixon as Vice President, Harold had White House support, and that the President was slow in dumping Stassen whom he regarded as a great liberal mind.

And Nixon cannot forget that his principal political enemy was Sherman Adams who used White House influence to prevent the Vice President from performing when the President was incapacitated. The conduct of both Sherman Adams and James Hagerty still requires explanation for the historical record.

The talk about the changed Richard Nixon is nonsense. Nixon may have matured; he may have grown; he may have had more experience. But what is meant by changing? The whole thing sounds like Moral Re-Armament going into politics. It is sentimental.

Until the candidates get down to issues and cut out the badinage, they cannot be taken very seriously. Thus far, neither has dealt with a public question of major magnitude and time is a-wasting. What are they waiting for? Have they an agreement to mark time and talk nonsense until a certain date? If so, why not start the campaign on that date?

Public apathy toward this campaign increases as the candidates continue to be so polite that one would imagine that they were at a tea party instead of a political debate. It sounds like a Dewey campaign.

Richard Nixon is a fierce fighter who goes after an opponent with all the means at his command. He is not a soft man. The same is true of John Kennedy. They are both acting as though some old lady told them to behave themselves. Swing, boys, swing!

Collecting Rocks, Fossils

Dear Mr. Editor:

When the mineralization of Pennsylvania is either spoken or thought of it is universally in the terms of coal and oil. But that is a very serious error, for though both coal and oil are important, there are so many other minerals that the list would be a long and varied compilation of strange, and sometimes unknown, names except to those who make a hobby of collecting minerals and rocks.

Inside You And Yours

Miracle Of Bile

Although the usual gallstone sufferer is supposed to be "fair, fat and forty"—the fair refers to the fair sex, not the complexion—the sufferer may range in age from two to ninety-two and be a He, may be so thin you can play xylophone music on his ribs.

If Caesar had been a modern biologist instead of an ancient general, he might have written: "All gall is divided into three parts—the bile salts, the bile pigments and cholesterol."

The bile salts are manufactured by the liver to aid fat digestion; the bile pigments come from destroyed blood cells and cholesterol is part of the fat circulating through the body.

Normally, the gall (or bile as it is now called) flows down a main pipeline or duct from the liver to the small intestine. The bile would pour down continually, but since it is needed only when fat is in the small intestine, nature has designed a bile storage tank, the gall bladder. This collapsible tank is hooked on to the main bile duct and a simple valve arrangement directs the bile into the gall bladder where it is stored until needed.

How It Operates During storage, water evaporates through the wall of the gall bladder, leaving behind a thick green concentrated syrup. When fat enters the small intestine, the gall bladder tightens, the valve opens and the concentrated bile pours into the intestinal tract. Here, the bile salts work like super-duper detergents, breaking the fat into small particles which can be absorbed with less toll. The bile pigments and excess cholesterol pass out with the intestinal wastes.

Infection or sluggish bile circulation may upset the gall bladder's continual cycle of collecting, concentrating and contracting. Like salmon in season, bacteria may swim upstream from the intestine or they may stop off at the gall bladder while taking the grand tour through the circulation. After remaining in a sluggish gall bladder too long, the bile may become so overconcentrated that it irritates and causes the same inflammation as an infection.

In either case, the victim has attacks of fever, indigestion and pain in the upper abdomen, especially when fried or fatty foods make his gall bladder contract. Antibiotics may help the infection, and rest and a fat-free diet will often relieve the symptoms. But as long as the same conditions persist, infection and inflammation will return again and again.

And so for those who are interested I would like to write for a moment about not only the minerals to be found in Pennsylvania and some of their locations, but also to make known the fact that the Mineralogical Society of Pennsylvania is putting on a show at the Doylestown (Pa.) Armory on Saturday, Sept. 24 from 1 p.m. to 10 p.m. and on Sunday the 25th from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

There will be exhibits of all phases of collecting and lapidary work with informative lectures and well qualified experts who will be only too happy to help with identifying either mineral or fossil specimen which may have troubled the collector as to just what he has.

Did you know that Monroe County leads the state in crystals, rock variety, some gem quality? And the vicinity of Kresgeville is famous for the deposits of manganese?

And while we are speaking of Monroe County why not mention the world famous Centerfield Coral Dike which runs all over this vicinity, Rt. 90; Saylorsburg; and of course, the beautiful corals coral formation in dolomite matrix which abounded in the Broad St. cut of the new Thruway.

One who is interested in mineral collection need not go far for a wide variety of both important and interesting minerals. To name a comparative few: At French Creek mine one finds the most unique formations and combinations of pyrites, magnetite, calcite (even the choice green) plus many others.

Wood's Chrome Mine produces Chromite, Kermesite, Pyrolusite, etc. Kibbleshoe Quarry has the most delightful zeolites of wide variety of Nacrolite, Magnetite, Epidote, Chrysocolla and Malachite with pyrites and Limonite, plus.

At Audubon one may find, with good luck, not only Galena, Ankerite, Barite, Calcite but also Silver. The Limestone Quarry at Bridgeport is world famous for its needle quartz crystals which are not only perfectly formed but also absolutely limpid. The old mine at Friedensville produces not only zinc and Xiled Calamine but also sphalerite.

Within a few minutes one may arrive at the Williams Quarry just this side of Easton where one may find Asbestos, beautiful books of Mica, an occasional Tourmaline; Dolomite, both pink and white, calcite and Talc also serpentine variety marble, precious, semi-precious, noble and soapstone, which is good for carving. Molybdenite is here, too.

Cornog is famous for its Kyanite (blue) quartz which lends itself to splendid lapidary specimens and pyrrhotite. Bethlehem Mine at Blue Ball is another must for the collector but the list of minerals from there is just too long to even consider. They run just about the whole gamut of desirables.

At the Earth Science and Gem Show at Doylestown all these and many more will be well represented and identified. For a wonderful experience for yourself and the children, do go and thoroughly enjoy yourselves and learn about Pennsylvania's minerals and "rocks."

The Allen-Scott Report

Chinese Brush-Fire Wars

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — While world attention is focused on the United Nations, extremely disquieting developments are again menacing long-sputtering danger spots in the Far East.

Intelligence reports given to Presidential candidates Richard Nixon and John Kennedy warn that Red China plans to instigate brush-fire wars at one or more spots in the Far East within the next 30 days.

The two candidates have been told that the most likely targets of the Chinese Communists are South Vietnam and Laos, which now is experiencing a crisis within a crisis.

In separate briefings, aides of Central Intelligence Director Allen Dulles reported to Nixon and Kennedy that the Chinese Reds have deployed six fully equipped divisions in North Vietnam and that these troops could strike at either Laos or South Vietnam.

Other Chinese Communist forces, including more than 200 jet planes, have then moved to fields near the Chinese-Laos border within the past two weeks. Also, a steady stream of arms and military supplies have been pouring into North Vietnam from China for the pro-Communist Pathet Lao forces since July.

The CIA briefers indicated particular concern that the pro-Communist Pathet Lao forces, supported by the Chinese Reds, may use the present crisis in Laos to launch a full-scale military drive at any time to try to take over that small Southeast Asian nation.

Presently, the neutralist government of Premier Souvanna Phouma is under attack by the rebel regime of General Phoumi Nosavan, who has charged that the month-old government is trying to make peace with the country's pro-Communists.

The threat of a Communist attack on South Vietnam is indicated by the establishment of a headquarters in North Vietnam by General Lin Piao, Peiping's commander in South China. From this new location, General Lin Piao is directing the movement of Vietnamese troops to new positions along the 1954 Armistice line that separates North from South Vietnam.

In answer to an inquiry of Senator Kennedy, Secretary of State Herter has informed the Democratic presidential candidate that should it become necessary to send U.S. troops to either country President Eisenhower will meet with him and other congressional leaders before the action is taken.

Note: White House aides say chief concern today is an intelligence report that both Moscow and Peiping believe the nation's preoccupation with the election precludes prompt and decisive action in a foreign crisis.

Harriman Reports — Soviet Premier Khrushchev has sounded out a number of African leaders personally about having their new countries join the Communist bloc, but so far has not found any converts.

That's one of the unexpected findings reported to Senator John Kennedy by former New York Governor Averell Harriman on his return from a fact-finding trip to Africa for the Democratic presidential candidate.

In his private report to Kennedy, Harriman revealed that President Toure, of Guinea, told him that Khrushchev had made a personal appeal to him and other African leaders to join the Communist bloc.

"President Toure told me he had some hot words with Khrushchev when the Soviet leader asked him to have Guinea join the Communist bloc and he refused," Harriman told Kennedy. "When Khrushchev pressed Toure for his reasons, the African leader said he didn't like the spiritual values of Communism, and that made Mr. K. sore."

According to Harriman, many of the African leaders thought they could take aid from Russia and still avoid Soviet domination.

"These leaders were more apprehensive of Chinese than of Soviet Communism," he reported, "because the Chinese would find the great undeveloped continent a prize outlet for their increasing population."

In conclusion, Harriman said that the dominant theme of the African leaders was that they must be allowed to develop Africa along African lines, but that they needed Western economic aid to do this. If this aid was not forthcoming, the African leaders told Harriman that they would turn to Russia.

Man-In-Space — Presidential Candidates Richard Nixon and John Kennedy have been briefed by the CIA that Russia will attempt to launch a man into orbit and try to return him safely to earth during the week of Sept. 25.

Premier Khrushchev attended a four-day conference of the Soviet Union's top propagandists (Sept. 6-9) before coming to the U.S. The conference was attended by the secretaries of the central committee of the 15 national Soviet republics, their ministers of culture, and a host of provincial secretaries, editors, and representatives of "local ideological administration and organization."

The purpose was to lay down a new line which will bridge certain ideological differences with Peking, according to U. S. diplomatic sources.

Farm-City Week Set For Monroe

NOVEMBER 18-24 will be Farm-City Week in Monroe County.

The selection of Leon Keller, RD 2, Kunkletown, as County Chairman has been announced yesterday by Thomas Patton, state chairman and assistant director, Agricultural Extension, Pennsylvania State University.

Mr. Keller will be in charge of this year's county observances which will place special emphasis on getting a better understanding between rural and urban folks.

Farm-City Week is a seven-day series of events aimed at "Knocking down the barrier of misunderstanding" which modern methods of production and distribution have raised between farm and city communities.

Special events are planned where farmers and city people can get together, exchange ideas, express problems and witness their basic similarities.

The events are sponsored by local representatives of agriculture, business, government, educational and civic groups.

Farm-City Week came into being six years ago to help promote better understanding of the mutual problems of rural and city groups. The week points out that today farmers and city people are heavily dependent upon each other in many ways including their basic needs of food, shelter and clothing. The objective of the 1960 events is to stress the theme "Partners in Progress," between farm and city families throughout Monroe County.

Hiring Handicapped Program Outlined

LOCAL employers were urged today to cooperate with their vocational rehabilitation agency in developing sound policies of hiring the handicapped.

Tom E. Williams, administrator of the Wilkes-Barre district of the State Bureau of Vocational Rehabilitation, made the request in connection with the National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week. The observance was set for the week of October 2-8 this year during which time the Bureau, all other agencies in the field of helping the disabled, the Governor's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped and 86 affiliated Local Community Committees, will emphasize the benefits of providing remunerative employment for our less advantaged citizens.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev did a little family boasting Thursday.

"She's at home taking care of the grandchildren," Khrushchev replied. "We even have a great-grandchild. How about you?"

"Not yet," the Peruvian diplomat replied.

Yugos Protest Insults To Tito

BEIGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—Individuals and organizations are sending telegrams protesting that insults are being directed at President Tito and the Yugoslav delegation to the United Nations at New York, Tanjug reported Thursday.

Williams said investigation has shown that many employers have no definite policy governing employment of disabled workers. "Too often," he said, "the result is discrimination against the handicapped because of lack of information that bars them from many jobs they can handle well, with the result that employer and employee both suffer."

To remedy the discrimination problem, Williams offered the resources of his agency to any employer wishing to formulate a policy for hiring the handicapped.

"Our aim," he declared, "is to bury once and for all the old idea that the physically and mentally impaired are fit only for unskilled work, even when rehabilitated."

Williams invited employers to examine the wide variety of jobs filled by clients of the local vocational rehabilitation agency during the past year. Among these positions, he listed occupations such as managerial, clerical and sales; and semi-professional.

Stand Behind Product

"If the nation is going to achieve a national goal of 200,000 rehabilitations a year," Williams asserted, "more people, particularly employers, must realize that we stand behind our product, the same as any reputable concern."

Dear Abby

Some People Never Satisfied

Dear Abby: My husband borrowed $100 from the finance company and the girl who waited on him made a mistake and gave him $200.

Now this is what makes me mad. When my husband discovered the mistake he carried the money back to the finance company and gave them the extra hundred. I am proud of him for being so honest, especially since we could have used that extra hundred ourselves. So after he gave it back, all the people at the finance company did was thank him for it. Don't you think they should have taken the interest off the hundred he borrowed, or given him a few dollars to show their appreciation?

HIS WIFE

Dear Wife: You have a right to be proud of your husband, but no one should expect a reward for being honest.

Dear Abby: My blood boiled when I read the letter from Angry Mother who had a police tell her she either had to put a man knock on her door and diaper on her 14-month-old baby or keep him in the house. What next? It seems to me that if the police force is going to see to it that the citizens are properly dressed, they should begin with the brazen women who appear on the streets and in the supermarkets with those short shorts and skin tight trousers. Oh, brother!

DISGUSTED

Dear Abby: A neighbor of ours put on one of those big fancy church weddings for her daughter last April. They had bridesmaids and ushers and the bride wore a white gown with a 22-foot train. When she walked down the aisle I told my husband I thought she looked pregnant. (I can tell a pregnant woman by the way she walks and nobody can fool me.)

Sure enough, Gladly (the bride) came over here this morning and told me she was expecting in October. (She looked like she could deliver tomorrow.) Gladly hinted that a member of her family couldn't head up a baby shower but a "good friend" could. I want no part of this. Should I tell her nothing doing and why I feel the way I do?

RESPECTABLE

Dear Respectable: Ignore her "hints" — but why pour salt on the wound? If she can count, she'll know what the score is.

Dear Abby: My mother has been mentally sick for three years. She is in the state mental institution. What can I tell my friends when they ask me where my mother is? I am 15. Please help me.

NO EXPLANATION

Dear No Explanation: Tell them your mother is sick in a hospital. If you are questioned further, add . . . "She's had a nervous breakdown."

Phouma Says Troops Have Halted Drive

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — The government of neutralist Phouma claimed yesterday its troops have stopped a drive on this administrative capital by anti-Communist rebels under the command of a former defense minister, Gen. Phoumi Nosavan.

Gen. Ouane Rathikone, government army chief, said Nosavan's forces fell back at Paksane, 100 miles northeast of Vientiane, after the first clashes of the 11-day-old civil war.

Gen. Ouane said three of Nosavan's soldiers were killed and a large number wounded. The general said that three of his men were wounded.

Western military sources here said reports they received on the fighting indicate his casualty figures are accurate. (Reports reaching Bangkok, Thailand, from Phoumi Nosavan's headquarters gave a different picture. They claimed a significant victory over Vientiane forces.)

The Soviet government charged in a statement broadcast from Moscow that the United States and its SEATO allies organized the rebellion and are backing

History Of Jazz Told Rotarians

THE "HISTORY OF Jazz" was the subject of a talk at Mt. Pocono Rotary Club Tuesday night. Speaker was Elbert Smith, an employee of the Tobyhanna Signal Depot.

Illustrating his lecture with recordings, Smith traced the beginnings of jazz to tribal chants of Africa.

Smith said he can't see rock 'n' roll as anything but a passing fancy. "I can't feel it," he said. He compared it to the era of boogie-woogie "that came and then went."

Fire Units Meet At N'fld

NEWFOUNDLAND — A meeting which included sessions of three separate organizations was held at the Greene-Dreher Fire Hall with the local company, headed by J. B. Robacker, as host.

Meeting were the Pocono Mountains Mutual Aid Association; the Mountain Firemen's Association; and the Monroe County Firemen's Association.

Represented were firemen from Stroudsburg, East Stroudsburg, Stroud Union, Marshalls Creek, Mount Pocono, Tobyhanna, Barrett, Tobyhanna Township, Delaware Water Gap, Tobyhanna Signal Depot, and Greene-Dreher. Special guests were Eugene McNamara, of the Department of Forests and Waters, and Harold Dodda, head of Delaware District.

Fire School Plans

Highlighting the session was a discussion of plans for a two-day fire school to be conducted this Saturday and Sunday at Toby-hanna Fire Hall. There will be demonstrations of fire-fighting methods to be used for fighting the various kinds of fires. Meals will be served during the two days at the fire hall by the auxiliary.

It was noted that the demonstrations of fire-fighting are open to anyone interested, and not just to members of the association.

State Seeks Specs O'Keefe

HARRISBURG (AP)—The State of Pennsylvania yesterday formally sought custody of Joseph (Specs) O'Keefe, a key figure in the Brinks robbery in Boston.

Gov. Lawrence signed extradition papers asking the State of Massachusetts for custody of O'Keefe, now living in Boston.

This state wants him on old charges of burglary and escape in McKean County.

O'Keefe won his freedom in Massachusetts last June 22 after serving five and a half years for his part in the $1,219,000 Brinks robbery in January of 1950.

Just about every American looks forward to Labor Day, the last big paid holiday of the summer. A good rest and time to do a little thinking.

When you retire, every day will be a holiday. By saving a little bit every day now with U. S. Bonds, you can make sure they are all holidays with pay.

For example, if you save $1.26 a day and buy a $50 Bond (cost $37.50) each month for 17 years, 9 months, you'll accumulate 213 Bonds. Your Bonds will then begin reaching extended maturity, and you can start cashing in the oldest one each month.

Each Bond you bought for $37.50 will now bring you $72.50 — a tidy addition to your retirement income. Total invested: $7,987.50. Total return: $15,442.50.

Here's how you can build GUARANTEED MONTHLY RETIREMENT INCOME

For 17 years, 9 months (based on present interest rate)

Buy a Savings Bond each month for 17 years, 9 months	(cost price)	18.75	37.50	75.00
At maturity (7 years, 9 months after issue) each bond will be worth		25.00	50.00	100.00
10 years after maturity (17 years, 9 months from the start of your Retirement Plan) bonds will start reaching extended maturity. Thereafter for 17 years, 9 months, you will get back each month		$36.25	$72.50	$145.00

(This Plan assumes that the 3 3/4% rate will be in effect 17 years and 9 months from the original purchase of each bond.)

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 6. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Area War II Vets Attend Memorial

TWO AREA residents were among the World War II veterans of 36th Infantry Division when it convened at New York City last weekend for the 1960 annual Salerno Memorial.

The Salerno Memorial is sponsored by many veterans of 36th Infantry Division and is in tribute to former members of the division who lost their lives on the beaches at Salerno, Italy and other parts of Europe during World War II.

The memorial service was followed by a reunion of former members of the division who meet annually to keep alive the memories and friendships formed during the war years.

Area men present were Alfred C. Reisenwitz, of Delaware Water Gap, and Henry W. Weidaw, of Skytop, both veterans of Africa and Europe.

Correspondent Talks

The guest of honor at the affair was news analyst and war correspondent Gordon Frazer, who was attached to the 36th Division during the Italian campaign. Frazer is associated with NBC radio and is currently heard on NBC's Monitor program.

It was pointed out that there are many former members of the 36th Division who reside in Eastern Pennsylvania and who are not aware of the services that are held each year. These veterans are urged to send their names for further information to the Society of the 36th Infantry Division, care of Postmaster, Skytop, Pa.

Probe Asked

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission was asked yesterday to investigate a Lehigh Valley Railroad request to discontinue all its passenger train service.

The transportation committee of the Allentown-Bethlehem-Easton Pa. Chambers of Commerce asked the probe, asserting that end of Lehigh Valley passenger service would "work a severe public hardship" to their cities.

Lehigh Valley said it planned to drop service Oct. 1 but the ICC held up the action pending a hearing.

Blue Mt. R-G Approves Predators' Reduction Plan

BANGOR — A contest designed to reduce predators was approved at the meeting of the Blue Mt. Rod and Gun Club, Bangor, this week. Paul Dunbar, president, presiding.

There will be two divisions, with the junior category for Bangor Area and Pius X High School students under 18, and the adult division open to senior members only. Cash awards of varying amounts will be given in each class.

When the contest, to be continued on an annual basis, closes Jan. 1, 1961, participants who have destroyed the greatest number of raccoons, opossums, skunks, weasels, foxes, crows and groundhogs will be rewarded.

Full particulars are available from the contest chairman, John Linaberry, 112 Washington St., Bangor.

Trapshoots Stated

Trapshoots were scheduled for the Sundays of Sept. 25 and Oct. 9, 16 and 23. There will be a rifle shoot Nov. 13. While repairs to the rifle range backstop have been completed, members are to report Monday with hammers and saws to work on the dead-mark backstop.

An order for 100-yard rifle targets for sighting in scopes was placed. It also was noted that signs, "Hunters, Ask the Farmers First," are available from Linaberry.

A course in hunter safety was planned. This will be started as soon as qualified instructors are available. Participation in the Halloween parade was considered. A donation of $5 to the Blind Association was authorized.

The game report observed that there are sizable deer herds along the river and that pheasants are more plentiful than last season.

Argument Ends In Death

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP)—A family argument preceded a shooting early yesterday in which the mother of five boys was fatally injured, state police reported.

Capt. John C. Grey of the state police said Richard Coffey, 31, employee of a wholesale sporting goods firm, had admitted arguing with Mrs. Coffey before she was shot with a small caliber gun. The officer said no formal charge was filed pending further investigation.

Grey said that when officers arrived at the home just outside Williamsport, Coffey was carrying his injured wife Norma, also 31, down the steps and muttering: "God forgive me." Mrs. Coffey died a short while later.

Police said the eldest of the Coffey children, Michael, 10, called headquarters and said: "Daddy, hot mommy. It was an accident."

DO YOU REALIZE.....

.....that buying on bank credit is a compulsory form of saving? It provides full ownership of valuable assets by enforced payments. By the banks' extension of "credit-with-dignity" to build asset-worth to an all-time high.

Even though Americans in all communities are enjoying the conveniencesthe new assets purchased on bank credit.....most of them fail to appreciate the banking process that makes their new possessions possible.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

The problems facing the United Nations are more important but not any more confusing and apparently unsolvable than the problems confronting local organizations when they want to change a meeting date.

More inflexible than the law of the Medes and Persians is the social calendar in Monroe County. No matter how much in favor I might personally be of changing a meeting day, I know we're licked before we start.

It is theoretically possible to change a meeting from afternoon to morning. In fact the Skitlers almost did it yesterday until they discovered that the alleys weren't available on Thursday morning. But when they tried to change it to another morning, the sky fell in.

For a while it looked as if everybody would be bowling all by herself. One woman's cleaning day conflicted with another's hair appointment, and somehow school cafeteria, weekend shopping, committee meetings, the children's music lessons or dentist's appointments got involved.

When the dust settled the day and time remained unchanged. They were lucky; at least they had a day and time to crawl home to. It's when a new organization tries to pick a meeting date, or any organization tries to pick the date for a special event that it gets really rough.

We might as well face it: there simply aren't enough days to go round.

The Wyckoff Shopper

"The Friendly Store" A.B. Wyckoff STROUDSBURG, PA.

I am writing this on a Wednesday afternoon for you to read Friday morning along with your breakfast coffee. Maybe you won't take time to read anything this morning... maybe you will be up and about even earlier than usual, particularly eager to get the children ready for school and to hurry down to Wyckoff-Sears. For you already know, of course, that these are DAYS OF IMPORTANCE in our store; days when the women take over. And right now, this morning, if you're early enough you can buy two pounds of our freshly roasted Delray coffee for only 1.00. It's usually 65c a pound.

If you're early enough you will also have the opportunity to look over all the costume jewelry before someone else makes a selection... and you can be among the first to guess the number of coffee beans in the big sack in Wyckoff's main window, or deposit a slip for Saturday afternoon's drawing, at which a Frigidaire electric dishwasher will be awarded.

Yes, Women's Days are a reality for you now. But as I write this column, they are not yet whipped into final shape. Mabel Anderson is still correcting ad proofs... I am looking over the carbons of her copy and selecting special values for radio spots... Donna Sandt is trying to whip a bulletin into shape so our employees will be thoroughly informed about every contest and special feature... and Pearl Walter, our president, has taken the day off, presumably to renew her vigor for the long haul ahead. I secretly imagine she's stitching a costume for herself, or for Holt Wyckoff, the president she has replaced for two days.

Women's Days are always fun... gay, colorful, mad. A wonderful background for the golden ring of the cash register—the cheeriest sound we Wyckoff-Sears women can hear, what with our quota posted so boldly before our eyes. This year we're giving away 1500.00 in merchandise prizes to well over a hundred lucky people. And these prizes include a portable Kenmore electric sewing machine, the gift of our Sears store.

Right now, as I write this, Women's Days haven't quite begun for me. Papers are piled high on my desk... I'm fretting about a fashion show script for Friday night... and I don't feel so well. The whole thing is driving me to drink—Buttermilk! By Friday, as you read this, I'm sure I'll feel wonderful again. I wouldn't miss Women's Days for anything... not even for the opportunity of telling Mr. Krushchev what I think of him.

Join the fun... 9 to 9 today... tomorrow 9 to 5:30. Costumes will be more numerous today, of course, because most employees hate to wear them while they work, and just skip the whole thing on the second day. When you come in, be sure to listen for announcements over the amplifying system and watch for balloons sailing through the air. You may win a prize! We have surprises that you just mustn't miss. Here's to happy shopping... happy winning!

Pirates Win Pair, Need Only 2 More

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pinch hitter Gene Baker's 11th inning, bases-loaded single in the opener and Don Hoak's bases-loaded double in the second game were the decisive blows Thursday as the Pittsburgh Pirates pushed nearer to the National League pennant with a 3-2 and 6-1 doubleheader sweep over the Chicago Cubs.

The double triumph widened the Pirates' first-place margin to 7½ games over the second-place St. Louis Cardinals and eliminated the third-place Milwaukee Braves from flag contention.

Pittsburgh's magic number is now two. The Pirates can clinch their first championship since 1927 by defeating the Braves in Milwaukee Friday night, provided the Cards split a doubleheader with the Cubs. A Cub sweep, regardless of the outcome of the Pittsburgh-Milwaukee game, would achieve the same purpose.

Face Wins First

Earl Face, in relief in the opener, and (Vinegar Bend) Mizell with a six-hit performance in the nightcap, were the winning pitchers.

Hoak was the batting and fielding standout in the doubleheader. He cracked four hits, two in each game, drove in three runs, scored three and handled nine chances in the field flawlessly.

It was Hoak who ignited the winning rally in the 11th inning of the first game. He singled off starting pitcher Don Cardwell and raced to third when Bill Mazeroski doubled. An intentional pass to Dick Schofield filled the bases.

Switch Talent

Cimoli popped to second base, man Don Zimmer. Murtaugh then called upon Baker, another right-hander, to hit for lefty Bill Virdon and Boudreau summoned Don Elston, a right-hander, from the bullpen.

Baker, with a 2-2 count, fouled off three pitches, then sent a ground single past Ernie Banks, the drawn-in Cub shortstop, to break up the game. The defeat, charged to Cardwell, was his 15th against eight triumphs.

It was the 10th victory for Face, who took over in the 10th after starter Vernon Law had retired for a pinch hitter. The little relief artist, making his 65th appearance of the season, allowed a pair of harmless singles in his two-inning stint.

Vinegar Gets 13th

Mizell fanned two and didn't walk a batter as he won his 13th game against eight defeats. Since acquired by the Pirates last May, the big fellow has won 12 in 17 decisions.

The Pirates, trailing 1-0 in the nightcap, assaulted Bob Anderson in the third inning and drove him from the mound with six successive hits to maintain their clean slate of never having been beaten by the Cub right-hander.

With one out, Bob Skinner, Roberto Clemente and Dick Stuart singled to tie the score at 1-1. After Hal Smith singled to load the bases, Hoak unloaded them with a double inside the right field line. Mazeroski's single scored Hoak with the fifth run of the inning.

Anderson, 0-4 against Pittsburgh this season, has lost all seven lifetime decisions to the Pirates.

Law, seeking his 21st victory, permitted seven hits over the nine innings he worked in the opener. Pittsburgh staked him to a 1-0 lead in the second on Hoak's triple and Mazeroski's sacrifice fly. Chicago tied the score in the third on Zimmer's two-out double and a triple by rookie Billy Williams.

The Pirates regained the lead in their half of the third, 2-1. Virdon walked, advanced to third on Skinner's single and a force play and scored on Smoky Burgess' two-out single.

The Cubs drew even again in the fourth, 2-2. Ron Santo doubled, went to third on George Altman's line single to right and scored when Bob Will grounded into a double play.

Reish Moved, Starnor Out

Baylor Switched To End For Emmaus Game Tonight

STROUD Union High School coach Walt Bjorn has juggled his line-up, in an effort to defeat Emmaus tonight on the road and gain the Warrior's first win.

Dissatisfied with the team's showing against Lehighton last Friday, in what

Gary Reish

Bjorn termed "the worst performance the club has made since it began practicing Aug. 18." The Mountie coach has shifted quarterback John Baylor to end and moved Gary Reish from end to guard.

The rest of the Mountie line includes end Barry Bond, guards Garry Rinker and John Taylor, center Cleve Keller and tackles Bill Morse and Jim Farry.

The shift means that Warren Loney, who had been sharing the quarterbacking duties with Baylor, will see solo service, unless Bjorn makes another switch during the game.

Leading Runner

Loney alternated between halfback and quarter and led the club in ground gaining with 63 yards in nine carries. Most of the yardage was picked up when Loney couldn't find a receiver and was forced to run.

Jack Imbt and Henry Ray will open at halfback, with Jerry Shanley at fullback.

Freshman halfback Glen Blasing has been promoted to the second unit after a fine debut against Lehighton. The ninth-grader caught two passes and gained six yards in his only carry.

The Mounties were not bothered with injuries in the Lehighton game but Bob Starnor, who started the opener as a halfback has been lost for three games because of grades.

Halfback Doug Wright was declared ineligible before the season because of grades and must also sit-out three more games.

Pass Increase

Stroud Union tried 17 passes against Lehighton but only completed four. Bjorn plans to pass as much or more against Emmaus and feels that with Baylor at end the completion percent will increase.

Bjorn had scouts watching Emmaus lose 13-12 to Quakertown last week.

The Green Hornets used a variation of the short-punt formation, with the quarterback in the fullback's position in a normal T-formation set-up and a halfback under the center. From the unorthodox formation, the ball is either snapped through the halfback's legs to the quarterback or snapped directly to the halfback.

CHARLES DAUS of Baldwin, N.Y., scored a hole-in-one on the 90-yard first hole at the Mountain Manor "red" course Wednesday.

It was the second ace on the hole for Daus, who recorded his first hole-in-one there in 1957. He used a seven iron both times.

Penn State Broadcaster To Speak At TD Club Monday

GENE KELLY, who broadcasts the Penn State University football games over a 30 station network, will address the first meeting of the Pocono Touchdown Club Monday.

Yanks Not Relaxing

NEW YORK (AP) — Although the magic number for clinching the pennant now is five over Chicago and four over Baltimore, the New York Yankees are not taking anything for granted.

With the next six of their remaining nine games to be played on the road, Manager Casey Stengel basks at looking ahead toward any World Series.

Stengel named Bob Turley (8-3) to oppose Boston's Nippy Muffett (6-3) in Friday afternoon's series opener at Fenway Park. The Yankees will send Art Ditmar (15-5) against Bill Monbouquette (14-11) Saturday afternoon and Ralph Terry (9-8) against Tom Brewer (10-13) Sunday.

If the Yanks keep on winning and the White Sox stumble against Cleveland the Orioles fail in Washington, Stengel's 10th pennant could be wrapped up over the weekend.

However, it is more likely that the clinching will drag on a little longer, perhaps to the end of the season. The Yanks go to Washington for three night games next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday and then come home to beat the Yankees next Friday night and Saturday and Sunday afternoons against the Red Sox.

When the club left for Boston Thursday, Ryne Duren was among the missing. The relief pitcher was discharged from the hospital and expected to rejoin his mates Friday. He suffered a cut over the eye that required stitches when he was hit by a ball thrown by pitcher Jim Hegan while warming up in the bull pen Tuesday night.

New York has a 9-7 edge over Boston for the season with six games to go.

North Carolina State's football roster includes 24 players from the state of Pennsylvania.

Cavaliers In Dark About Green Knights

EAST Stroudsburg High School goes into its Saturday night game against Pen Argyl "blind" but the Knights will have only one eye to work with.

Pen Argyl opens its season at East Stroudsburg Memorial Stadium and Cavalier coach Jack Kist's only information on the Knights has been from newspaper reports.

Pen Argyl coach Dick Wolford and his staff scouted East Stroudsburg's 26-0 win at Slatington last week but Kist was careful not to show Wolford too much.

Use Reserves
"As soon as we scored two touchdowns," says Kist, "I used my reserves and ran only basic plays."

Kist also kept his passing game under wraps, throwing only twice and competing one pass for 15 yards.

Even with reserves in the game, East Stroudsburg dominated the play, picking up 280 yards on the ground to Slatington's 109.

"Our defense looked good against Slatington," said Kist, "but Slatington wasn't a strong club and Pen Argyl will be."

Kist was tipped to the potential of the Knight club last spring at the Eastern Pennsylvania Scholastic Football Coaches Clinic, by a Pen Argyl assistant, who said the school was expecting its best team in seven years.

Speed Worry
East Stroudsburg will probably outweight the Knights but Kist is worried about the speed differential, especially in the line.

"We know from past experience that they hit quickly," says Kist.

The East Stroudsburg coach summed up Pen Argyl by saying, "There're one of the toughest clubs we meet." Pen Argyl won 7-0 last year.

East Stroudsburg came through the Slatington game without any injuries and Kist plans to use the same line-up that opened the Slatington game. Jim Steele and Brian Farris will share the right halfback spot. Farris is still bothered with hip trouble and Kist wants to rest the small speedster as much as possible.

Harold (Mach 2) Myers, who scored twice in the Slatington game on a 53-yard punt return and a 50 yard off-tackle burst, will open at left half with Dave Harmon at full and Jack Fellman, the only senior in the backfield at quarterback. Myers gained 113 yards in 13 carries.

In the line, Kist will start John Sandstrom and Harry Van Vleet at ends, Vince Patella and Bud Stann at tackles, Mike Boushell and Earl Metzger as the guards and Bob Houck, is the center.

Prices Set For Series

NEW YORK (AP)—The ticket scale for the World Series has been announced by Commissioner Ford Frick.

The series opens Wednesday, Oct. 5 in the National League park, presumably Pittsburgh, where the first two games will be played. After an off day, Friday, Oct. 7, the two clubs will resume in the American League park, Saturday, Oct. 8 and continue for three days unless one team has won four. If it is necessary to return to the National League park for a sixth and seventh game, there will be an off day, Tuesday, Oct. 11.

Box seats in Pittsburgh's Forbes Field will cost $11 each, grandstand reserves will be $7.50, standing room $4.40 and bleachers $2.20. At Yankee Stadium the boxes would sell for $10.50, reserved for $7.35, standing room $4.20 and

Dykes Rehired For One Year

CLEVELAND (AP) — Jimmy Dykes was named Tuesday night to manage the Cleveland Indians for one more year, General Manager Frank Lane said "if things go as they should there is no reason why it shouldn't be longer."

Dykes came to the Indians Aug. 2 in the celebrated "swap" of managers. Joe Gordon, former Indians pilot, took over Dykes' job with the Detroit Tigers as Dykes came here.

At that time the Indians were in fourth place and had lost 18 of their last 25 games. Under Dykes they won only 22 of 48. However, the Indians have been hit hard by injuries.

N.Y. Cuts Alex

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Giants of the National Football League cut to 38 players Tuesday by getting waivers on Alex Webster, ace halfback; George Scott, a halfback; Ellison Kelly, a guard; and Pete Hall, quarterback.
